

Nick Dahlgreen Bio:

'Nick grew up on a market garden between Swanland and Hessle, attended Hessle High School and then gained a degree from the London School of Economics. He qualified as an accountant and had a career in Finance working for a number of large companies including Northern Foods, Asda, and Yorkshire Electricity; latterly as Group Treasurer of an international consumer finance business. He retired from the corporate world in 2020 to do something completely different - to write his first novel. 'My Man and Me', a satirical thriller, was published in 2021. Nick has put together a presentation from a new author's perspective on the writing, publishing, and marketing process, and some extracts from his debut novel. It's an insight into how to pick your way through this whole new world.'